Désiré, Class of 2023

"After a Master's degree in fundamental private law at the University of Lomé, Togo, I wanted to specialize in business law, which is why I enrolled in the DSU with a business and company law specialization at the University Paris-Panthéon-Assas, whose prestige I was well aware of [...]. After the DSU, I was admitted to a highly selective Master 2 in Criminal Finance Law at Cergy Paris University. I'd say that the DSU is the ideal springboard to adapt to the French educational and legal system, while at the same time providing a high level of training. Finally, having "Assas" on your CV always makes a difference."

Araceli, Class of 2023

"I studied law and obtained a master's degree in civil and family law at the University of Guadalajara in Mexico. For 10 years, I worked as a lawyer in a firm specializing in civil, family and business law. In 2022, I completed the DSU in civil law. This experience was very fulfilling, both in terms of technical knowledge as well as in terms of personal and social experience. It was very interesting to meet jurists from other countries who had come to France for different reasons, but who were seeking the same objective as me: to acquire a greater legal culture and learn French law, the cradle of Mexico's and other countries' legal tradition. The courses are taught by excellent professors who are an important reference in legal doctrine, which enabled me to acquire the legal knowledge and methodology necessary to be accepted into the Master 2 in General Private Law at Paris-Panthéon-Assas. I must say that the courses and exams are very demanding, but the DSU helps to overcome the challenges of language and methodology."

Jaime, Class of 2023

"My experience with the DSU has been entirely satisfying. I think it's a well-designed program designed to introduce foreign students to French law in their chosen field (in my case, administrative law). The program also allows students to acquire a thorough knowledge of French methodology and the joint introductory courses on French public and private law are very comprehensive and interesting. Personally, I'd recommend this program to any foreigner with at least the equivalent of a Bac+4 - as was the case for me, as a lawyer at the Chilean bar - and wishing to continue their studies in France at M1 or M2 level. The DSU year was essential for me to acquire a solid legal grounding in the subjects I'm currently studying as part of the M2 Droit public approfondi program at Paris-Panthéon-Assas. Finally, I must mention that the atmosphere among students from all over the world is very friendly and welcoming, which also contributes to the quality of university life."
